

NEET MDS 2024 Question Paper with Solutions (Memory-Based)

Go through the NEET MDS 2024 memory-based question paper with answers below.

Q. Reverse bone architecture is commonly found in.

A. Trauma from Occlusion (TFO)

Q. What causes gas gangrene?

A. Clostridium

Q. MacConkey agar is associated with

A. Differential medium

Q. Where is oral metastasis to soft tissues is commonly seen?

A. Attached Gingiva

Q. Which radiographic technique detects early proximal caries?

A. Bitewing

Q. Thyroid cartilage is located at which vertebral level.

A. Between C5 and T1

Q. Which dental cement shows the highest solubility?

A. Glass Ionomer Cement (GIC)

Q. Chlorine-based disinfectants are not compatible with which material?

A. Zinc Oxide Eugenol

Q. Where are Tetrodotoxin receptors present?

A. Hot tooth

Q. Which is the most commonly occurring natal tooth?

A. Mandibular central disorder

Q. Which vitamin is necessary for fibroblasts to produce collagen?

A. Vitamin C

Q. Why water is not suitable as a transport medium for avulsed tooth?

A. Water is hypotonic. It causes cell lysis.

Q. Which medication is given if a 26-year old experiences asthmatic attack during the dental extraction?

A. Salbutamol

Q. What is used for sterilization of dental burs?

A. 2 per cent Sodium Nitrite

Q. What compensates interproximal tooth surface loss?

A. Mesial drift

Note: These questions have been compiled from various sources including test takers, coaching institutes and various experts discussing paper on their social media platforms.*

