Bocconi Entrance Test — SDA Bocconi Asia Center

Overview

SDA Bocconi Asia Center admission process is divided into three selection sessions. Each round allows two months for the students to apply. SDA Bocconi Asia Center grants admission through centralised exams, such as CAT, GMAT, NMAT by GMAC and GRE. Those who have not appeared in any of these exams or do not have satisfactory scores will have to take BET.

BET Selection Process: The Three Sessions

Early Session

The first round of the BET selection process. It is dedicated to students who are in the second or final year of their graduation and are willing to apply in advance.

Winter Session

The second round of the BET selection process. It is dedicated to students in the final year of their graduation, as well as students who have already graduated from their universities. The majority of admissions take place in this round of the selection process.

Spring Session

The third round assigns approximately 5%–10% of the total seats available. It is open to last-year secondary school students, as well as to students who have already graduated or are coming from other universities.

BET Admission Process

Application Process

Interested candidates can apply online via the MISB Bocconi website. To apply, students will have to register themselves as new users. Apply at the BET website. The process is held in three rounds.

BET

To apply for the Bocconi Entrance Test, submit application details with test scores, essays and documents required. If students have not appeared for any of the tests, they will have to take the Bocconi Test.

Personal Interview

Personal Interviews are conducted after an initial preselection based on the candidate's dossier submission. Shortlisted candidates are provided with an interview date and the interview may be conducted either in person or online.

Admission Results and Offer Letter

Admission results are communicated to accepted candidates in writing, through an offer letter along with the acceptance date. Tuition waivers or scholarships, where awarded, are also included as part of the same offer letter given to the candidate.
